Introduction

Since 2013, with the support from Social Welfare Department, our agency has been delivering the project 'Peace Campus' under 'Educational Programme on Stopping Domestic Violence' (EPSDV) in Eastern Kowloon providing 6-hour training course for participants who had potentially or already used family violence. The aim of the project is to enhance the participants' emotional management skills, understanding the influences of family conflict and violence; and use of peaceful ways to solve the conflict with intimate partner.

Start from October 2018, with the support by Social Welfare Department, EPSDV has been extended and named as 'Support Programme for Enhancing Peaceable Relationship', our project scope of 'Peace Campus' has been expanded to cover the supportive programmes for children witnessing or being exposed to family conflict (or even family violence).

Objectives

- To learn how to handle partner conflicts in a non-violent way, and improve intimate partner relationship and family relationship;
- To support children witnessing or being exposed to intimate partner conflict (or even violence) by enhancing their resilience and life skills in addressing family conflict;
- To raise public awareness and understanding towards intimate partner violence and dating violence.

Application Method

- Self-application
- Referred by professionals, school personnel, staff of other government departments or social service organizations
- For those parties interested in co-organizing the programmes, please feel free to contact us for enquiry

*Applicants need to go through pre-assessment before enrolling the course.
